

UPDATE

Within hours of finalizing SiliconValleySign.com in late April 2015, it went viral! The concept was featured in all local news and radio, and even received national attention. The German travel magazine GEO Special Kalifornien even featured the sign in the April '15 edition! I have been fortunate enough to meet with some local residents and business leaders who are interested in making this a reality, and some have generously joined me on the quest of bringing a landmark to Silicon Valley.

I am pleased to announce that The Engineering Honor Society Tau Beta Pi at San Jose State University will be part of this project. The team will be a fundamental component in ensuring that the proposed landmark is at the forefront of technology and sustainability. We have already begun promoting an art competition, where we anticipate interested members of the local art community will submit their best interpretation of how the sign should look. This contest will run until October 25th.

A Look Ahead

Ending 2015 into early 2016 we will be presenting a first stage final rendering of the sign to some local Chamber of Commerce. Public comments about the landmark concept at both San Jose and Milpitas City Council will also be done.

Please continue checking the site for further updates, as always your comments and suggestions are always welcome.
